Board of Education Meeting

The Brecksville-Broadview Heights City Schools remains dedicated to sharing as much information as possible with the community regarding updates on the construction process, and have been so dedicated, since we began campaigning to the community more than one year ago. We thank the many people who take the time to engage with the information that continues to be provided regarding this construction process, one which we believe everyone in the community has the opportunity in which to participate. The approach by which the District makes information available is deliberately multi-mediated, so that different groups who receive information in different ways can have access to updates. The multi-mediated methods which have explained every detail as thoroughly as practical, and that we have used over the last 12 months, have included:

- Nearly a dozen, District-hosted, and District-sponsored public meetings at various times... and in varying locations...for ease of attendance. These meetings have included handouts with information and have invited the architects, construction, legal and financial experts on multiple occasions. Over the last year, those meetings took place on
 - Wednesday, January 24, 2018, campaign kick-off meeting, open to the public
 - Wednesday, May 2, 2018, public forum on Issue 3, held at Brecksville Library, open to the public
 - Wednesday, August 22, 2018, Meet the Architects Night, open to the public
 - Also, on August 22nd, an Investor's Forum, with the District Treasurer and bond counsel
 - September 18, 2018, Educational Visioning Session with community members, including both Mayors from both municipalities, who attended
 - November 1, 2018, Meet the Construction Manager Night, open to the public
 - These meetings come in addition to an equal number, if not more, of various other types of gatherings held in people's private homes during the campaign to explain the details of the construction process.
- District officials have attended public meetings held at the request of our partnering municipal entities on numerous occasions, including in the City of Brecksville and also in the City of Broadview Heights on three separate occasions.
- Our partners in the local media in Brecksville Journal and Broadview Heights Magazine have run articles outlining various aspects of the construction process including in the following months:
 - March 2018 edition
 - April 2018 edition
 - June 2018 edition
 - July 2018 edition
 - August 2018 edition
 - September 2018 edition
 - October 2018 edition
 - January 2019 edition
 - And again, will feature information in the March 2019 edition
- Superintendent Magyar sends a regular email to nearly 4,000 individuals on a near-weekly basis, including to many in the community including all elected officials and stakeholders.

- On nearly 15 occasions in these emails during this time frame, we have directly referenced updates to the community regarding the construction process. If you are not on the email list, you can easily sign up for it on the District's home page and website.
- Finally, with regard to the District home page and website, a myriad of information is available to the public there, including our most recent creation of "The Buzz," which will become a quarterly publication, available to the public and distributed through the email system and which is an update of the construction process.

Communications is a two-way street. People who want to be informed about the process have ample methods and opportunities to do so. These mentioned items are only a handful of ways that the public is encouraged to be involved. These methods are not to mention the fact that the entire Brecksville-Broadview Heights City Schools team is prepared to drop everything and anything to answer questions if those still exist after referencing the proactive documentation of items. This is how the District has gone about its business of sharing information with the community regarding this milestone event, the construction of a brand new, state-of-the-art PreK- 5 elementary school.

Occasionally, things get misreported and such was the case recently. The idea that the District couldn't attend a public meeting on January 28th was due to the fact that school officials were "casually invited" at best with little more than a few days' notice. For the record, the questions that were raised by the handful of people at this meeting HAVE YET to make their way to the school district for answering. We trust that the information which has been available, and is available right now in the public and on our website, can and will answer any lingering questions that may exist in the community. To the quibbling we have heard about land swapping and values of property, I ask those people this: If one student benefits...and of course we know MANY STUDENTS will... by having this brand new, state-of-the-art facility...that is a top quality learning institution with innovation and the latest resources and capabilities for the students in our District...what value then, is the education we can faithfully provide and deliver... to these students? On behalf of my colleagues, I assert that the value is PRICELESS. After all, it is an election year and people's motives have a tendency of totally misrepresenting good and solid institutions like the Brecksville Broadview Heights City Schools, whose sole purpose is to deliver the fine heritage of education to students in all the communities it serves...and will fortunately be able to do so for them... in a brand new facility.
